PRODUCTION AND MARKETING ADMINISTRATION

The Production and Marketing Administration was established within the Department of Agriculture, August 18, 1945, by order of the Secretary of Agriculture, thus consolidating under one head, functions which had been included in several USDA agencies. Responsibility for programs dealing with agricultural commodities is now centered in the 10 commodity branches of the Production and Marketing Administration. Other activities of PMA are carried out through its functional branches and staff offices, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

MARKET NEWS REPORTS

Through a Nation-wide system of field offices and leased wire facilities, PMA gathers market news on supply, demand, movement, quality, and prices of livestock, meats, wool, fruits, vegetables, dairy and poultry products, grain, hay, feed, cotton, cottonseed, tobacco, rice, honey, and other agricultural commodities. This information reaches the public and interested producing districts throughout the country by wire, radio, newspaper, and mail. Daily, weekly, semi-monthly, and other periodic reports are compiled in leading wholesale markets and in many important producing areas of the United States. Some reports are provided to nearby radio stations and newspapers by messenger and telephone, but most are provided through special arrangements with the major news services.

Reports are prepared by field offices under the direction of headquarters in Washington. Field offices for the most part cover only the commodities assigned to the branch of which each field office is a part. Although reports are devoted largely to the market in which the field office is situated, most of them contain information on other important markets for the same commodities.

Separate mailing lists are maintained at each field office, and any request for a market news report should be sent to the Production and Marketing Administration, USDA, at the proper address as given in the following list.
